Election/Restrictions

1. Newly submitted claims 38-41 are directed to an invention that is independent or distinct from the invention originally claimed for the following reasons: The newly presented claims are considered properly restricted under a combination/subcombination relationship

Since applicant has received an action on the merits for the originally presented invention, this invention has been constructively elected by original presentation for prosecution on the merits. Accordingly, claims 38-41 are withdrawn from consideration as being directed to a non-elected invention. See 37 CFR 1.142(b) and MPEP § 821.03.

2. This application contains claims drawn to an invention nonelected with traverse. A complete reply to the final rejection must include cancellation of nonelected species or other appropriate action (37 CFR 1.144) See MPEP § 821.01. Applicants elected the specie of SiC.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

4. Claims 14,15,23,24,30-37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Japanese document 10-228974 and 07-328360, each taken alone, for reasons of record.

Applicants' argument that Japanese document '974 fails to teach recrystallized material selected from silicon carbide, silicon nitride and aluminum oxide is not persuasive. Firstly silicon nitride and aluminum oxide are drawn to non-elected species. Secondly the Japanese document clearly teaches recrystallized silicon carbide. It is further argued that the Japanese document fails to teach an "impurity that is one of iron, copper, nickel, chromium and calcium". The interpretation of this claim limitation is that only one of these impurities need to be in an amount less than 1ppm in view of the Markush terminology "one of". Also claim 33 does not limit the amount of impurity present. Even if iron is present in the equipment used to manufacture the products of the Japanese document the claims are not considered to limit the iron content to less than 1 ppm. If only one of Cu, Ni, Cr or Ca is less than 1 ppm the limitation of the claim is considered met. Applicants have not given any reasoning why it would be expected why one of these elements would be present in an amount greater than 1 ppm.

5. Claims 33-37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Holmes et al (5,770,324), for reasons of record.

Claims 33-37 do not require interconnected pores. A network of pores does not mean the pores are connected. The examples show impurity amounts within the scope of the dependent claims.

6. Claims 14,15,23,24,30-37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Dubots et al (6,162,543), for reasons of record.

Firstly it is pointed out that only claims 30-32 require interconnected pores. As to Dubots et al failing to teach connected pores, through out the specification the porosity is defined as "open", see abstract, claim 1. Open porosity has to be connected pores.
